

"The WIC program aims to safeguard the health of low-income women, infants, and children up to age 5 who are at nutrition risk by providing nutritious foods to supplement diets, information on healthy eating, and referrals to health care."

CIFC Health manages the WIC program to provide Supplemental Nutrition Assistance to Pregnant and postpartum women and their young children in Danbury. "The Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC) provides federal grants to states for supplemental foods, health care referrals, and nutrition education for low-income pregnant, breastfeeding, and non-breastfeeding postpartum women, and to infants and children up to age 5 who are found to be at nutritional risk."

As soon as you know you are pregnant, call WIC for an appointment at 203-456-1410

WIC vs SNAP

WIC and SNAP - commonly referred to as "food stamps" - are both "Supplemental Nutrition Programs" administered by the Department of Agriculture to address the nutritional needs America's most vulnerable populations. However, there are significant differences between the benefits and supports provided by the WIC program and SNAP.

Similarities

- Eligibility is based on need
- Provides access to food
- Benefits loaded onto a payment card

Differences

- Eligibility is limited to Women and children under 5
- WIC provides specific food based on circumstance
- WIC provides nutrition education and counseling
- WIC provides breastfeeding support
- WIC provides health screenings and referrals
